

First Day of the Festival was a fascinating journey through the femininity and masculinity. It was a process of searching the identity, the thing which determined our personality traits. There was a big discussion after the performances. Because of the discussion organizers suggested that we may arrange a professional gender workshop. It turned out that the workshop engage only the women attention.