

Making questions about the masculinity, the authors of the performance are aware that they struggle with the mysterious concept that is really hard to define. Through the para-autobiographical stories they try to trigger the need to look for the lost identity by taking up the internal journey. It doesn't lead to the particular aim, it is the process within itself that is about the looking for freedom – the biggest human desire.