

A: The X edition of Wioska Teatralna (Theatre Village) has been called: For the new type of community. Theatre. Therapy. Ecology." How to interpret this name?

B: It sounds like confession...

C: No..., it sounds more like manifesto.

D: Maybe theatre, therapy and ecology should become a community? Triple-subjective community in a way? Or maybe it should take its part in creation?

E: In creation of some community?

F: New community. But..., what means, that the community is new?

G: If "the new community" exists, there should be also some "old" one. By saying "new", you project "old". You should ask first about the old one. You will understand more.

H: If we want new community it means, that the old one doesn't work properly, that in its defectiveness it collapses, and it's not enough...

I: It simply has to be changed...

J: Oh! Yes! I know! It's about the change. About the change for something new, again. And at that point we need the theatre, therapy and ecology.

M: Hmm..., it sounds like an invitation to some interesting conversation. Lets answer to it!
